I love winter because it is fun!

A Hiking

By Wong Ying Kwan, Evelyn (3A)

Last Saturday, Ann and her family went hiking. It was very hot so Anna and her mum wore hats. Her dad wore a cap and a pair of sunglasses. Ann was very excited because it was her first time going hiking.

Then, they walked to a cave. The cave was very dark and dirty. Mum bought a camera and she took some photos of the cave.

After that, Ann went to a lake. She met a boy and a girl. The boy was feeding some fish and the girl was picking flowers. Ann did not know how to stop them. She said, 'Oh my god!' She cried. She did not know what to do. She felt upset.

In the end, the boy and the girl said sorry to Ann and they played together. What a fantastic day!

An "Interesting" Lesson

By Lui Chun Ho, Jeremy (3A)

Today is Monday. Mary is in the classroom. She has a General Studies lesson. She is excited. Miss Chan teaches the class about frogs. Mary likes frogs so she is happy.

Then, Miss Chan takes out a frog. It is cute. Mary likes it. Mary and her classmates look at the frog.

Suddenly, the frog jumps out of the box. Mary cries. She does not know what to do. She is scared. She screams, 'Oh my god!' Miss Chan comforts Mary. The other classmates are scared too!

Finally, Miss Chan catches the frog and puts it back into the box. Miss Chan says, 'It's fine now!'

What a bad day!

A Poor Cat

By Liu Liusa, Sandy (3B)

In the morning, Tom and his mother go to school. They wear scarves because they feel cold.

Then Tom sees a poor cat in the box. It is under the tree. The cat is thin and weak. Tom feeds the cat with some milk. Next he asks his mother, "The cat is poor. Can I bring it home?" Mom agrees. Tom is glad because mom lets him keep the cat.

In the end Tom takes the cat home. They live happily with it.

A Poor Cat

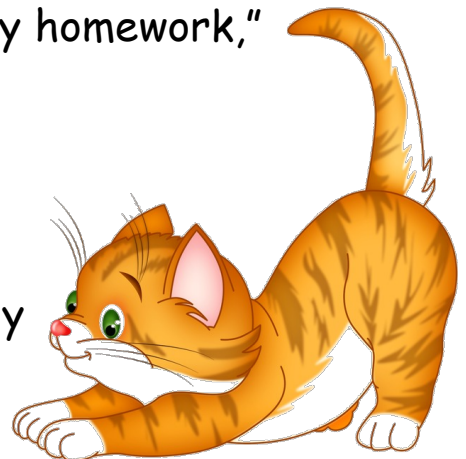

By Xiao Lucas (3C)

My mother took me to school yesterday. It was winter. The weather was cold and windy so we had to wear our scarves. We felt like we were standing in front of a big fan.

On my way to school, we saw a cat. The cat was in a box under a tree. The cat was shivering in the cold. "What a poor cat!" I thought. Then I fed it with a carton of milk. "Mum, can I take this cat home?" I asked. My mother looked at me and said, "Yes, you can. You're kind, you don't want it to feel cold."

I took the cat for a shower after we got home. I named it Little. "I'll play with you after I finish my homework," I said.

From now on, we have a new family member! We are glad.

In the Park

By Luo Zhiqing, Tiffany (3C)

Last Sunday, Joey and her grandma went to Shatin Park on foot because the park was near their home. When they arrived at the park, Joey was very excited. Joey asked, "Oh! There is a swing. Can I play on it?" Grandma answered, "OK, but you must be careful." Joey played on the swing. Grandma saw an old friend and they chatted for a long time.

After a while, grandma didn't see Joey on the swing. Joey was lost. Grandma looked for Joey everywhere but grandma could not find Joey. Grandma was scared. Grandma called Joey's mum. She asked, "Is Joey at home? I can't find her!" Joey's mum answered, "Yes, she's at home now!"

In the end, grandma told Joey not to go home alone next time. What a "surprising" day!

A Hiking

By Mak Yi Na, Vanessa (3D)

Ann and her family went hiking last Sunday. The weather was hot and sunny so they wore hats. They went to a hiking trail in Sai Kung. It was beautiful. They were glad.

First they went to a cave. It was very dark inside. Mum took some photos. Ann was scared. Then they went to a lake. Ann saw two naughty children feed the fish and pick the flowers. Ann was angry. She shouted, 'Stop!' So the children stopped and said sorry to Ann. In the end they became friends.

What a great day!

An "Interesting" Lesson

By Mak Chiu Fung, David (3E)

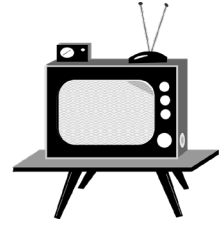

It is Monday. In the morning, Mary is in the classroom. She has a General Studies lesson. The class is quiet. Mary listens to Miss Chan, General Studies teacher. She talks about frogs. Then she shows a frog to the class. It is in a tank. Mary and her classmates are excited.

Suddenly, the frog jumps on Mary's arm. She is very scared. She does not know what to do. She screams and cries loudly. David, Mary's best friend, is brave and helpful. He tries to catch the frog. Finally, David puts the frog back into the tank. Mary is happy. She says thank you to him.

What a great day!

A Day Without TV

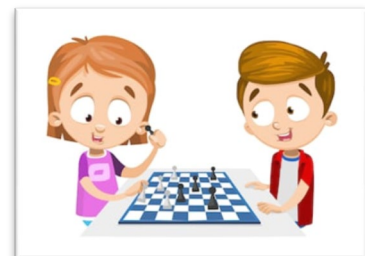

By Tang Yuen Ching, Michelle (4A)

Bonnie likes watching game shows very much. She thinks they are interesting. She doesn't like the boring documentaries.

One day, when Bonnie was watching TV, the TV was out of order suddenly. Bonnie couldn't watch TV, she was upset.

Grandpa came and talked to Bonnie. He said, "When I was young, I didn't have TV. I could only play hide-and-seek and Chinese chess with my friends. I was glad."

Finally, Bonnie played chess with grandpa. Bonnie learnt that there were a lot of meaningful games she could play with others besides watching TV. She felt great.

Jack's Birthday Surprise

By Lau Yui Sam, Racine (4B)

Jack loved eating candies because he loved sweet food very much. Jack's mum was worried that Jack would not be healthy. She felt sad because Jack did not eat healthy food. He only ate a lot of sweet food.

One day, Jack's mum said she would make a cake for Jack's birthday. Jack felt excited because he thought it would be very yummy.

The next day, when Jack saw the cake, he said, 'Yuck! It's a veggie cake!' Jack's mum said, 'The cake is very delicious and it's good for your health. There are a lot of carrots and broccoli inside, my dear!'

In the afternoon, Jack's friends came to his birthday party. When they saw the cake, they said, 'What a special cake! Let's try it together, Jack!' His friends thought the cake was very special because it was a yummy veggie cake. Jack's mum asked, 'Is it yummy?' Jack's friends shouted, 'Yum! Yum! Yummy!' Jack tried it too and he loved it.

The next day, Jack's mum didn't see Jack eating any sweet food again and Jack started to eat healthy food instead. Since then, Jack had good eating habits and became healthy.

Kelly's Weekend

By Yu Hau Cho, Joe (4B)

Kelly got good results in her exam. Her parents were happy for her and they wanted to celebrate it.

On Saturday morning, Kelly and her parents went to the Peak by bus and the Peak Tram. They looked at the view of Hong Kong there.

In the afternoon, Kelly and her family went to Aberdeen. They ate seafood there. Kelly thought it was very yummy so she ate a lot. Her mum said, 'Kelly, you eat too much seafood. You need to eat less now because too much food is bad for us.' Then, Kelly stopped eating. Kelly asked, 'Where will we go tomorrow, Dad?' Her dad said, 'We'll go to Disneyland. I think it'll be fun.' Kelly was very excited.

At that night, Kelly had a stomachache. Her parents looked after her. Everyone was very worried.

On the next day, Kelly's parents took Kelly to the hospital, but the doctor said Kelly had terminal cancer and she would die the next week because she ate too much food every day. After that, Kelly was very regretful.

Kelly's parents were very upset. Kelly thought, 'Why will I die?' One week later, Kelly passed away. Kelly's death was on the news. Everyone knew about it. After the news, a lot of people learned that they shouldn't eat too much food every day.

Kelly's Weekend

By Tam Chun Yeung, Donald (4C)

Kelly was happy because she got good results in her exam. Therefore, her family planned a trip to celebrate with her at the weekend.

On Saturday morning, they went to the Peak by Peak Tram. It was the first time that Kelly went to the Peak. When they arrived at the Peak, they saw a lot of tall buildings and beautiful Victoria Harbour. The view was amazing.

In the afternoon, they went to a famous restaurant, Jumbo Seafood Restaurant in Aberdeen. They ate some crabs, some fish and some shrimps. They liked the delicious seafood. After lunch, they started discussing what they would do the next day. They wanted to go to Disneyland. Kelly felt happy.

At night, Kelly felt sick and she had a stomachache. Her parents brought her to the clinic. The doctor said she had food poisoning. Kelly had to stay at home and take some medicine.

In the end, Kelly was disappointed because she couldn't go to Disneyland.

A Day Without Television

By Sze-to Lam Wai, Janes (4D)

Bonnie likes watching TV very much. She likes watching game shows. She thinks game shows are interesting. She doesn't like watching documentaries. She thinks documentaries are boring.

However, she could not watch TV last weekend because the television was out of order. Bonnie was upset. She stayed in bed and felt bored. Then Bonnie asked Grandpa to come and repair the television. Grandpa came and talked to her. He said, 'When I was young, I didn't have a television. I usually played hide and seek and Chinese chess with my friends.'

Finally, Bonnie listened to Grandpa and did not watch TV. She went out to play with her friends. She was happy.

Jack's Birthday Surprise

By Li Tsz Yu, Cystal (4D)

Jack liked eating snacks. He liked chocolate, cakes and sweets because he liked sweet food. He did not like vegetables or pasta. He thought they were not delicious. Jack's mum was worried because he did not eat healthy food. He had a bad eating habit.

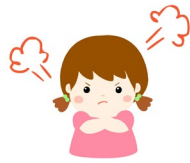

Last Monday was Jack's birthday. Jack was excited because he wanted to have a chocolate birthday cake.

The next day, Jack got the cake. Actually Mum bought him a veggie cake. It was made of broccoli and carrots. Jack was upset.

Finally Mum asked Jack to try one piece of the cake. Jack tried and thought it was yummy. At last Jack liked eating vegetables. It was a special birthday to Jack.

My Diary

By Lau Wing In, Toby (5A)

Date: 20th November, 2018

Weather: Sunny

I had a BAD day today! Today was a holiday.

I wanted to watch a film at the cinema. I went to the cinema by bus. I got on the bus. I took a seat next to a man. First, he ate a banana. Then he threw the banana peel onto the bus floor. Then he ate a chicken leg noisily and messily. "You shouldn't eat on the bus," I said to the man politely. "Mind your own business!" the man stared at me as if I had done something wrong. I was speechless and felt embarrassed.

I was watching a film in the cinema when I heard a boy talking loudly on the phone. People sitting next to him were annoyed. They grew angry when the boy talked louder and louder. After 10 minutes, we finally could enjoy the film.

After watching the film, I went to a restaurant. I was waiting for the food when I saw a girl playing noisily. She was so annoying.

In the end, I went back home to have cup noodles instead. For the whole day, I was disturbed by those inconsiderate people. Have they ever learnt these rules: we shouldn't eat on the bus and we should not talk on the phone at the cinema? We should behave ourselves in public places.

The New Cinderella

By Cheung Suet Wing, Hannah (5B)

Once upon a time, there was a poor and hardworking girl, Cinderella. She had two step-sisters who were lazy and cruel. Their names were Amy and Mary. They were mean to Cinderella. They ordered Cinderella to housework and Cinderella was still very polite to them.

One day, the king sent an invitation card to Cinderella's house. A message was written on the card, "Hello! I have an interesting party! If you want to go to my party, go to my castle and have fun!" Cinderella wanted to go but her step-sisters said, "You want to go? No way! Poor girl, do more housework!" Cinderella cried. Then her step-sisters went to the castle.

Suddenly, an elf appeared. Cinderella was surprised. The elf said, "I will help you." And then Cinderella turned to a pretty princess and went to the party.

Mary and Amy saw the elf and they grabbed it hard. They said, "Hey! We want a handsome prince, a cute dress and a big castle..." At that time, the elf died because Mary and Amy grabbed him too hard.

After the party, the prince married Cinderella. However she was sad because the elf died. Finally, Amy and Mary were sent to jail. Cinderella and the prince lived happily ever after.

A Diary Entry

By Hong Jolyn Lu (5C)

24th November, 20XX

Sunny

Yesterday, my classmate Ben and I went to the countryside. The weather was good. It was sunny. We ate cookies and sandwiches there, we also drank some water and cola. We were fine at that moment.

Suddenly, Ben climbed up the tree because he wanted to bring the little crying birds down to feed them. I felt scared but he was brave so I did not need to worry that much. When he was taking the nest carefully, I heard the sound of the bees in the trees, so I yelled, 'Ben, get down now, there are a lot of bees there.'

When Ben saw the beehive above him, he was very terrified, so he jumped off the tree. Although he had bruises all over his knees, I was so glad that he did not get any injuries.

In the end, I put an ice pack on his knees and warned him not to do any risky things again.

A Theft

By Poon Ka Cheuk, Jacky (5C)

At eleven forty-five last night, Leo sat on his chair and began to do his Maths homework. He said to himself, 'I need to do more quickly so I can study for my English test.'

Suddenly, a man with a mask climbed up the water pipe and broke into his neighbour's flat. However, Leo didn't notice the thief. He was still doing his Maths homework.

When he was drinking some water, he turned around. He saw the thief climb down the water pipe. And Tom shouted, 'Help! All my family's jewellery is stolen! We are tied up by a mysterious stranger who is wearing a mask!' Leo was worried. He dialed 999 immediately. 'Hello? Is this the police?' he asked. 'Yes. What happened?' asked the police. 'There's a theft at my neighbour's flat. He has stolen all the jewellery from them and tied them up.' Leo replied. The police asked again, 'What did he wear? How did he climb up to the flat? And what were you doing when you saw the theft?' Leo answered, 'I was drinking some water when the theft climbed up the flat. He used the water pipe to climb up. He wore a mask and a black suit.' However, the call ended so Leo went downstairs to his friend— Peter's house, but Peter had a party and a lot of friends came to his house.

Soon, Leo was inside Peter's house. He told Peter and his other friends that there was a theft at Tom's flat. He said, 'This is the mission. Peter and Andy, save Tom and his family. Also look for clues in the flat. While Angus and Kelvin are investigating the thief's secret hideout, Benny and Carlos will take these over-powered handcuffs when they don't see you. But don't hurt them! The rest of us will take NERF® guns when Angus and Kelvin have found the hideout and shot the thieves. Are you guys ready?' 'Ready !!!' the other children shouted. The mission started!

Peter and Andy went to Tom's flat and saved them. 'Thanks!' Tom said. Angus and Kelvin took their dogs — Biter, Lucky, Super and Sniff. Luckily, they found the secret hideout quickly. There were four thieves in total. They hid in a corner. After a while, the thieves came out. They had knives with them, Leo ran to face them bravely. He said, 'Freeze! Dirtbag! You are under arrest!' However, the thieves didn't listen to Leo. Leo's friends came to help him. They took out NERF® guns and shot at the thieves.

While the thieves kept dodging the NERF® bullets, Benny and Carlos sneaked to the thieves' back and handcuffed them. 'Yay! We've caught the thieves!' They shouted. Leo called the police to take the thieves to prison. Later, the police arrived. They took the thieves into their car and drove away.

The next day, Leo and his friends were invited to go to the police station. The chief inspector said, 'I'm glad that you guys caught the thieves last night! I'll give you all a lot of gold and a reward!' 'Sir, it's Leo. We followed his orders so we could catch them.' said Peter, as he was pointing at Leo. You're very brave! Here's the gold and a reward for your bravery.'

Leo went home and saw his pictures on the newspapers and TV! Leo thought, What an unforgettable experience !

Playing with Water Guns isn't Fun!

By Poon Ka Cheuk, Jacky (5C)

Last Sunday, Jamie's cousin, Jason came to her house. They were glad to see each other. Jason suggested playing with water guns in the living room. 'Great idea!' said Jamie. They took out two brand new water guns and filled it with water. Then they sprayed at each other. They both shouted, 'It's fun and exciting!'

When they were playing with water guns, they didn't notice that their grandma was walking from her bedroom to the living room. But their grandma didn't notice that the floor was slippery.

She opened the door and stepped on the slippery floor. She twisted her ankle and fell over. She broke her favourite vase and her head banged onto the wall. Jamie and Jason were scared so they called Mum. Mum came in and saw that Grandma had fainted. She dialled 999 immediately.

A few minutes later, the ambulance came. The ambulance men lifted up Grandma and put her onto a first-aid automatic loading stretcher. Next, they pushed the stretcher into the ambulance and let Jamie, Jason and mum come with them.

Soon, they arrived at the hospital. The doctor wrapped some bandage onto Grandma's head and ankle. After a while, Grandma woke up. The doctor said, 'I'm sorry. The patient has to stay in hospital for a few days.'

Jamie and Jason felt sorry about it.

They told Mum the truth that they played with water guns in the living room and made Grandma fall down. Luckily, Mum didn't punish them. They had learnt a lesson.

Finally, they went home. Jamie and Jason thought, What an unforgettable experience it was!

The New Cinderella

By Chung Chui Shan, Sophia (5D)

Once upon a time, there was a beautiful girl, Cinderella, who had two ugly sisters. Cinderella's sisters asked her to do all the housework. She swept the floor, washed all the dishes, hanged up the washing and cleaned the furniture by herself at home. She felt sad and tired because she worked all day without time to rest.

One day, the prince invited the girls in the city to his party. Cinderella wanted to go to the party but she had no beautiful dresses or shoes, then she cried. Suddenly, a fairy appeared and she was willing to help her. The fairy turned Cinderella into a princess. She looked pretty in the shiny dress and shoes. She looked cute with ribbons. Cinderella's sisters felt jealous so they wanted to catch the fairy and they wanted to ask her for beautiful dresses, a castle and a handsome prince.

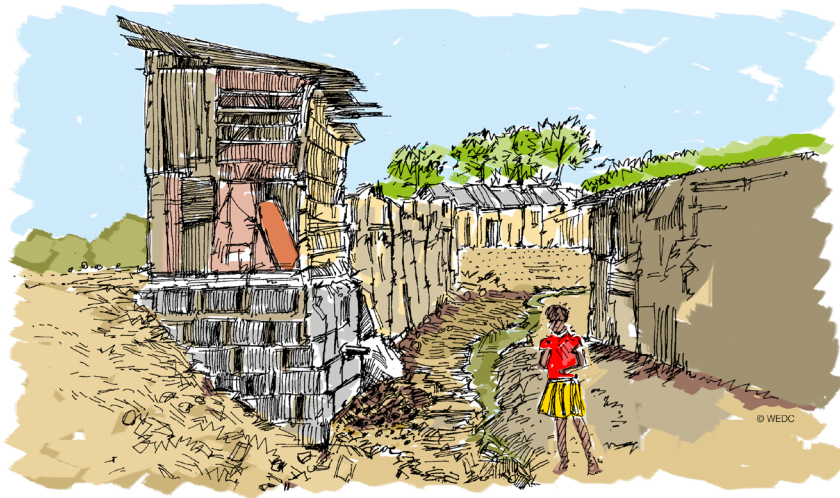

In the end, the fairy turned the two ugly sisters into ants. She thought they were too greedy. Eventually, Cinderella and the prince got married. They lived happily ever after.

A Day in a Poor Village

By Lee Shing Hin, Sam (6A)

Today I spent a meaningful day in a poor village in Yunan because I joined a campaign to visit a poor village in China.

Yesterday, I came here by plane. It took three hours to get to the village. We arrived at twelve o'clock at night. When I arrived, I felt very exhausted so I went to sleep. But the bed was too crowded. The family did not have enough beds so three people slept in one bed.

Today morning, I woke up at eight o'clock and started my day. First, I wanted to take a bath so I went out to get some water from the well. It was really far away. The water bucket was heavy so I could only take one bucket. But the children could take two buckets so I was so worried that the children's backs would get hurt. After taking water, I took a bath. I was careless so I spilt the water everywhere and I did not have enough water. I needed to get water from the well again. After that, I ate breakfast with the family. There was very little food so I still felt very hungry.

After breakfast, I went to school with the children. The school was far away from the village. It took two hours to walk! When we arrived the school, I thought the school was old. It was not safe. I walked inside and the classroom was very dark, there were very few desks and chairs. Some of the children even sat on the floor. They did not have enough books so they shared one book.

After the trip, I thought living in Hong Kong is very fortunate. We have enough food to eat. I have learnt that we should save our things and donate money to the charity. I hope three years later, they can have enough food to eat.

An Unforgettable Picnic

By Lam Yau Wai, Hugo (6A)

Last week, I went on a picnic with my classmates. We went to Ma On Shan Country Park. We were very excited.

When we arrived, Mary noticed the monkeys. She pointed at them and shouted, "There are monkeys! I don't like monkeys!" "Me too!" said the two girls. So we decided to look for somewhere to have our picnic. We saw some picnic tables far away at the corner of the park.

We took out our food and all the things to play, such as football and kites. I played happily with my classmates but nobody took care of the food.

At the same time, the monkeys started to look for food to eat.

They saw our delicious fruit on the table. One of the monkeys jumped on the table and opened the bag. They passed the fruits one by one. At last, all the fruits disappeared.

Soon we were tired and hungry, so we returned to the picnic table. "Oh no! All our fruits are gone!" I yelled. Mike asked curiously. "What should we do?"

Suddenly, there was a voice, "Hello!" When I turned my head, I saw my friends, they were having a barbecue. They invited us to have a barbecue together. At last, we went home by train. We were so tired that we all slept on the train.

That was an unforgettable day. I will never forget this amazing picnic.

A Day in a Poor Village

By Wong Hiu Tung, Mary (6B)

3rd January

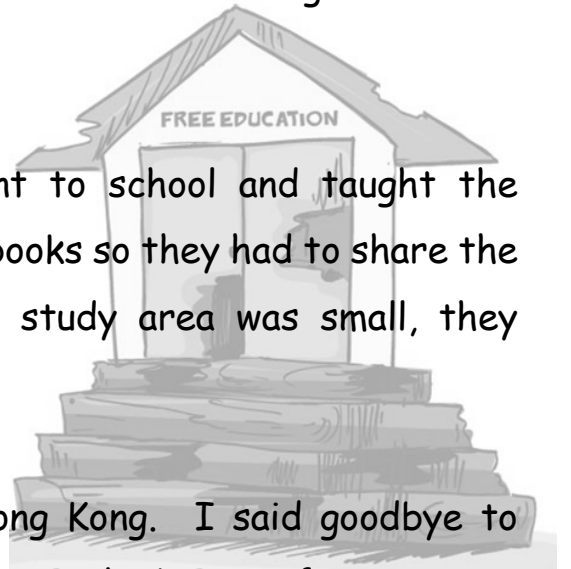

Sunny

I joined a charity event and I spent a day in Yunan. I arrived at Yunan at 10:00 p.m. last night so I felt very tired. I stayed with a family in a poor village. There were not enough beds. I needed to sleep with two "strangers". I couldn't sleep well at night because the bed was too crowded.

When I woke up at six o'clock the next day, I had to get water from the well to wash my face. The bucket was too heavy for me. I was thinking about the people in Yunan. They had to walk for a long way to get water every day. After work, I had a shower but there was no hot water. Luckily it was a sunny day and the water was not very cold. Five minutes later, I ate my breakfast. People in Yunan did not have enough food so I ate very little.

After I finished my breakfast, I went to school and taught the children to study. There were not enough books so they had to share the books with other children. Although the study area was small, they enjoyed their study.

At night, it was time to go back to Hong Kong. I said goodbye to Yunan. I had an unforgettable experience. I think I am fortunate to live in Hong Kong. I can study in a big, clean school. I think we can donate money to help those in need. I will cherish my learning opportunities.

A Visit to The Elderly's Home

By Wong Cheuk Lam, Twinky (6B)

Yesterday my classmates and I went to visit an elderly's home. We went there because we wanted to spread our love to the elderly. We were all very expecting to the visit.

When we arrived, the elderly welcomed us with their warm and cheerful smiles. We sang songs, played games and chatted together. Then we had lunch with them. Jack fed them carefully and I helped the others to put on their clothes.

Suddenly Sally called my name and waved her hand. I went over to her. I was stunned. The scarves were missing. Sally said, "Maybe we've forgotten to bring them or we've left them on the bus." I called Jack and Tim to come over and discussed what we should do. Tim suggested that we could buy a new one, but we did not have enough time. Jack suggested that we could make other things. However we did not have any materials.

Then an elderly said, "I can teach you how to knit a scarf." Oh! She had heard our discussion. The other elderly made scarves with us. We made them together. Before we left, we said goodbye to them.

Today I learned that volunteering work is rewarding. You will be surprised by how much you will get back when you give your time to help others.

The Rooster and the Bee

By So Tsz Shun, Jason (6C)

One summer, Rooster was excited and proud of his new feathers. He was as happy as a pig in the mud. He sang all day long. Although Bee told him to get prepared for winter, Rooster did not care about it. He totally ignored Bee's advice.

Soon, summer was gone and the freezing winter came. Of course, Rooster could not find anything to eat so he wandered in the snow. He was down in the dumps. Suddenly, he saw Bee's house so he knocked on the door and begged for food. Fortunately, Bee gave him lots of honey. Rooster felt warm inside and he was ashamed. He knew that he was as proud as a peacock during summer but he did not prepare well. Therefore, he apologized to Bee and Bee forgave him. He taught Rooster to prepare for winter patiently.

Day after day, Rooster went out to find food. Night after night, he stored food and waited for winter. In the next summer, Rooster really prepared a lot for winter and he had enough food to eat.

In the end, Rooster was grateful that he had such a good friend. He learnt that he should always get prepared before it is too late!

A Fight Between Good and Evil

By Lau Cheuk On, Kris (6C)

One day, when Billy was cleaning up his bedroom, he found a treasure map under his bookshelf. The map showed the location of a treasure so he was curious. He decided to find the treasure. He prepared a rucksack and some tools.

Soon, he found a boat and started his adventure. At the same time, two evil men followed him closely. When Billy arrived at the island, he looked for the treasure. After a while, he found a chest which was buried under the dirt. He jumped up and down and tried to dig the chest out. Suddenly, he was knocked out cold by two evil men. When Billy woke up, one of the evil men said, 'Thank you for leading us here. Hey! Look! There's a bird flying in the sky!' 'No, it's a plane!' the other one yelled.

'Boom!' Superman landed and shouted, 'You're wrong, I'm Superman and I'm going to punish you two!' The evil men laughed at Superman because Superman did not have any weapons. They got into ready position. However, the two evil men tried their best, they were still not able to beat Superman. Superman knocked them down easily. Then, he sent Billy to the hospital safely. He also sent the evil men to the jail.

In the end, Billy burned the map because he did not want other people to get into trouble like him. Since then, nobody could find the treasure.

A Week in a Poor Village

By Li Zhi Yao, Venus (6C)

Last summer, I spent a week in a poor village in Nepal to experience the lives in rural area. Before the journey, I had no idea how their lives are because Nepal has a long history as the poorest country in Southeast Asia. Half of the children under the age of five are underweight. Two-third of the country's population cannot read or write.

On the day I arrived Nepal, it was already night time. I walked for an hour to the nearest village. A generous family let me sleep in their house for a week. I was grateful to them. When I went inside their wooden house, there was a shocking scene. The house was about to collapse and it was empty inside except a shabby bed. It was really different from Hong Kong. Therefore, I had to share the bed with the two kids in the family. We could hardly get some space as we tried our best to squeeze like sardine. It was so crowded and the weather was so hot. I felt uncomfortable and could not fall asleep.

The next day, I woke up very early and started working with the family. We walked through the damaged roads to the well. It took a long time as the well is quite far away from their house. The water there was muddy and smelly, even with dead fish inside. The water bucket was too heavy so I had to use both hands to carry it. My body sweated so much after working. Then, I took a bath. The water for bathing was limited. There was no heater and the water was as cold as ice. My body was shivering while I was taking a bath.

After bathing, I had dinner with the family. There was only some soup and a little rice. Although the meal was healthy, it was tasteless. I was still hungry but I vomited after dinner. I thought maybe the food sources were dirty. I felt sick for the whole night, it was a torture for me!

Another day started, I visited the only village school. There were not enough chairs, books or desks for students. There were no fans or air-conditioners either. The facilities were really terrible. The students were too poor so they had to share the resources with one another. Although they were studying in such a horrible environment, the students were very eager to learn and there was always a smile on their face. I really appreciate their learning attitude. After a while, it was time to go. I waved goodbye to the children and flew back to Hong Kong.

The journey was meaningful and the memory has engraved on my heart. It does not only broaden my horizons, but also offer an opportunity for me to reflect myself. I feel so fortunate to have a warm family. I am so lucky to study in a well-equipped school. Unlike people in Nepal, I should have nothing to complain. I should never take things for granted and cherish everything I have.

Good People Good Deeds: A Visit to an Elderly's Home

By Huang-I Kan, Kenzie (6C)

It was a memorable experience. Everything happened will definitely engrave on my heart...

Recently, our school organized an activity which is a visit to an elderly's home. Our teacher wanted us to participate in such a meaningful event. Therefore, our classmates and I went to an elderly's home near our school yesterday. We have been preparing for the visit for two months as we wanted to give a surprise to the elderly.

On the day of the visit, we arrived at school early in the morning. We set off for the elderly's home at 9:00 a.m. When we arrived there, we were welcomed by the staff and the elderly. The teacher told us to serve two old ladies who cannot move properly. They were unable to eat by themselves so they sat on a wheelchair, waiting for our help. When I was feeding them, I zoomed in their faces. Their magnificent silver hair crowned their wrinkled faces. They looked stunning. Although they ate as slowly as snails, Jack and I fed them bit by bit. I thought, their children must be too busy to take care of them because of their work. The problem of aging population is getting more and more serious. No wonder they have to stay here! The meal was really simple but I had a strong feeling towards it. The scene was really heartbreaking.

After we finished the meal, I was ready to present the gifts to the elderly. The weather was getting cooler so I believed my gifts must be the best gifts ever! "Gosh! Why is the paper bag empty?" I shouted loudly, holding an empty paper bag. It made my hair stand on end. Sally came over after hearing me. We had no clues why our scarves were gone!

Then, I gathered my classmates and discussed what we could do. Yet, we had different ideas that we could not compromise at all. Meanwhile, the elderly had already waited for a long time. One of them walked to us, 'What are you talking about?' We were all shocked. I stuttered and told her everything. The old lady tipped her head to one side without saying a word, I was afraid she was about to yell at us,

The old lady started, "Well, actually we're grateful that you've come and visited us today! The scarves do not mean anything, but your action!" Her kind words melted my heart. I immediately gave her a big hug - how warm it is!

In the end, my classmates and I still could not find the scarves we knitted. Instead, we sang a song with the elderly joyfully. We hugged them one by one. A small action makes a big difference, I thought.

I shared my experience with my classmates about this unforgettable experience - It is more blessed to give than to receive.

On Friday, we went to the Space Museum to watch films about the space. The screen was very wide. We felt great! When we were leaving the museum, Sam discovered that his wallet was lost. Sam was very worried because the wallet was very important to him. A staff came to us. He asked, 'Is the wallet yours?' Sam replied, 'Yes, thank you very much!' The staff said, 'Be careful and don't lose it again!' Then I took Sam home. Sam learnt a lesson. He would be more careful with his belongings. Besides, he was satisfied to the visit of Hong Kong.

A Visit to Hong Kong

By Huang Ying Yi, Wendy (6D)

Last week, my cousin Sam came to visit me. On Monday, we went to Ocean Park. We watched the dolphin show. The dolphins were very smart. They could do a lot of tricks. They were very cute so I took many photos with them. After that, we rode on the roller coaster and saw a lot of animals.

On Tuesday, we went to the Science Museum. Sam liked dinosaurs very much so he took a lot of photos with the dinosaur fossils. On Wednesday, we went to the Space Museum. We watched the film which was about the space. When we finished watching the film, we couldn't find our camera.

We were scared to lose it. We checked our seats and bags but still we could not find it.

Then we went to the Lost-and-Found office. I told the staff that my cousin had lost a camera. She showed us a camera. She asked me, 'Is this yours?' I replied, 'Oh! Yes, it's ours. Thank you!' We put it in the bag and continued to visit other places.
